Miss Geechee To Represent ASC In Miss Georgia Pageant

The 1972 Miss Geechee Pageant will take place tomorrow night beginning at 8 p.m. in the New Student Center.

Pageant judges and the nineteen contestants will meet for the first time during a reception in the faculty lounge of the Student Center at 1 p.m. Following the reception, the judges will interview the contestants in groups of three. Then the girls will model swimsuits and give their talent presentations.

The pageant activities will resume at 8 pm beginning with a presentation of the contestants and Faith McAlhane, Miss Geechee 1971, who will co-host the show with Mr. Danny Kramer. The Armstrong Band will provide the music for the opening number.

Following the opening presentation, the girls will compete in evening gown wear. After a decision from the judges, Danny Kramer will announce the names of the ten semifinalists. The ten girls will compete once again in swimsuit and talent competition.

On the basis of the evening events, the judges will select the winners of the talent, swimsuit, and evening gown divisions. Also Mr. Kramer will announce the contestants' choice for Miss Congeniality 1972.

At this point, he will also announce the five finalists. He will then talk individually with each girl. The judges will base their final decision on this last portion of the competition. Kramer will announce the decision of the judges at approximately 10 pm, and then Faith McAlhane will crown Miss Geechee 1972.

Senior Chris Ellington, who is the Chairman of the Miss Geechee Pageant, and Mr. Joe Buck, Director of Student Affairs, are directing the pageant. The four pageant judges will include Miss Marilyn Taylor who is the current Miss Auburn University and Mr. Lindy Martin, Dean of Students at Samford University in Birmingham, Alabama.

Student Government Sponsors Presidential Hopeful McCarthy

Former Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota will speak to the student body of Armstrong on Nov. 12 at 12:30 in the gymnasium. He will discuss "Priorities for the 1970s." Although he failed to receive the presidential nomination in 1968, McCarthy is again a candidate for the presidency of the United States.

The Senator's appearance is being sponsored by the Student Government Assn. as part of the Lecture-Concert Series. The public is invited.

A tentative schedule has been set for McCarthy's visit. Before arriving on campus, Senator McCarthy will participate in a panel discussion with several Armstrong students. The forum will be taped by the local and educational networks and shown throughout the southeast Sunday Nov. 14. A joint meeting of the Political through Monday to do gigs with bands. But then, he was PLAYING music, and that's often better than studying it. But between gigs, when good times lagged, he worked odd jobs—one for IBM where he was an Inventory Control Specialist (stock boy, to you—and to him). Joe Frank loves to travel, shoots a good game of pool, likes TV, and above all loves to play music, which he does as often as possible.

Reynolds is THOMAS CLARK REYNOLDS, who plays percussion, flute, vibes, and piano. Tom was born in New York City (every so often someone is actually born there) and has lived in Bermuda and the Virgin Islands. In the States he went to school at the Admiral Farragut Academy in New Jersey, and entered Syracuse University as a liberal arts student, where he formed a group that worked around the country. Tom may be the only young musician who knows how to build and play steel drums, a talent left over from Caribbean days. He's worked and written extensively, even cre-

Hamilton is DAN ROBERT HAMILTON, who plays lead guitar, sings, and writes. He was born in Spokane, Washington, started playing professionally when he was 16 and has been a working musician ever since. He wrote the hit tune "Diamond Head," and, second to his work, loves horses.

Joe Frank is JOE FRANK CAROLLO, who plays bass. He's from Leland, Mississippi, where they have a penchant for double first names. Joe Frank went to Delta State College in Cleveland, Mississippi, as a music major. He didn't finish school—a little thing about taking off Thursday

Hamilton, Joe Frank, & Reynolds Presented For Fall Concert

This Saturday night, November 7, the SGA Dance Concert committee will sponsor a performance by Hamilton, Joe Frank, & Reynolds. The concert will be held at the Alee Temple from 8 until 10 p.m. and will be free for all students with ID cards.

Hamilton, Joe Frank, & Reynolds are a three-man group recording on the ABC/Dunhill label. The lead single from their album, "Hamilton, Joe Frank, & Reynolds", is entitled "Don't Pull Your Love Out" and it is currently riding in the Top 5 on all the best-seller charts with sales verging on Gold Record status.

editorials

The editorial opinions expressed on this page are those of the collective Editorial Staff of THE INKWELL and are the sole responsibility of this staff.

There has been considerable attention given lately to Armstrong's parking situation. At a recent Dean's Advisory Council meeting, in the pages of the INKWELL, and in the cafeteria and the annex the Parking Problem has been a topic of discussion.

To present its readers with the facts of the situation, INKWELL staff members conducted an investigation of the Parking Problem. Our investigation is complete and we here present a synopsis of the investigational procedures and our observations and conclusions.

1. What is to be investigated: it is often reiterated that there are too few parking spaces for faculty and staff. The solution for this is obviously to reserve more spaces (more about this at a later date) so we cannot see that this is a problem at all. Similarly, that there are more cars registered than there are parking spaces is beside the point; we set out to find: is there enough parking on campus for the cars on campus?
2. How the investigation was conducted: the investigation consisted of keeping the parking lot under surveillance.
3. Observations and conclusions:
  - a. Surveillance revealed that the parking lot is never completely full between the hours of 8:30 A.M. and 11:00 P.M. Most of the time it is about half full; seldom more than three-quarters.
  - b. Since there are at all times more parking spaces than there are cars, the INKWELL concludes and submits that there is no parking problem.

That there is no parking problem is not to say that there is no problem with parking. Armstrong is growing, and the time will come when there are more cars to park than there are spaces to park them in. The time to plan for the future is now; and the way to plan for the future is to avoid other people's mistakes.

Acres of black, sterile asphalt are the hallmark of a large institution. Such parking lots are hot, ugly, ecologically unsound (the updrafts do bad things to local airflow patterns), and it seems that you always have to park at the end that is miles away from where you want to be. We would like to see Armstrong People have something better than the equivalent of a runway to park on. We would like to see a multi-level parking building.

We were in New York city awhile ago and we went to one of Macy's stores on Long Island. Macy's has what looks to us like a good idea; they have a tall, round building for parking. A spiral ramp goes from the ground to the top of the building. In the building's center are elevators and utility rooms and like that.

Immediately, the talk turns to money. Well, all right, let's talk about money. It costs a medium-sized fortune to build such a verticle parking lot as Macy's has, we would imagine. That doesn't matter in the least. We are either going to have an expensive parking building more or less centrally located in the campus, or we are going to have an expensive, huge complex of parking lots, at least one end of which will be miles from everywhere.

We submit that it is stark, staring stupid to go around building more and more bigger and bigger parking lots. In this case, more and more plus bigger and bigger equals worse and worse.

We suggest that the board of Regents grit its collective teeth, smile wanely, and make the right, expensive decision instead of a great many wrong expensive ones.

THE INKWELL operates because we have eight thousand, five hundred dollars of your money. Our budget comes out of the fifteen dollar Student Activities fees you pay.

We feel editorially responsible to our publisher, which is you. We'd like to hear from you. About anything.

A note written on lined paper is fine. Drop it off in Mr. Buck's office, in the lobby of the Memorial Student Center (up about five steps from the cafeteria).

Anything, anyway at all.

"Students, I don't care whether there's a parking problem or a problem with parking. Final exams are next week and you had better quit getting my parking place."

ASC Makes Graduate Degree Possible

By DR. JAMES A. EATON
Associate Dean for Graduate Studies

It seems to me that the opportunity for all college graduates to have access to graduate work is one of those, "rights," that should be available to all who qualify.

That happy idea came closer to becoming a reality for the people of Chatham County and surrounding areas when the Board of Regents approved the implementation of the Savannah Graduate Center, effective Sept. 1, 1971.

Of course, if one insists on being technical and seeing that Center, he will be disappointed. The Savannah Graduate Center at present is simply a concept which states that Armstrong State College will combine the faculty and physical resources of the two colleges to offer a joint graduate program through, "The Savannah Graduate Center."

This rather unique concept will at first benefit mostly persons in the teaching fields and business administration, since these are the areas in which master's degree work will first be offered. However, the, "founding fathers," have much larger hopes for the eventual offerings of the Center. The possibilities for expansion are great.

In the meantime, for those who have wondered how they could ever get a master's degree, the Savannah Graduate Center makes that a possibility. The professors are the best the two colleges have. The work will always be challenging. The information will always be up-to-date. And best of all the cost will be rather much the same as you now pay as an undergraduate. And imagine how you will feel to be one of the few people in the world to hold one master's degree from two accredited colleges!

For further information, see your department head. Or drop past the Graduate Studies office some afternoon for conversation.

Nixon Dedicates "Cancer Center"

Washington (WCNS) — President Nixon last week dedicated a new national Center for Cancer Research at Fort Detrick, Md., where once more than 14,000 scientists worked on highly toxic chemicals and potent bacterial agents for possible use in total war situations.

The changeover results from a November 1969 announcement by the President that the U.S. would no longer conduct research into such weapons and would destroy all existing stockpiles. The Fort Detrick plant of seven buildings and equipment, valued at more than $135 million, will be converted into a major center for the Administration's "war on cancer" that was announced

New Two Year Program Offered at Armstrong

In order to offer the broadest possible spectrum of educational opportunities Armstrong has added a new major degree to its already impressive list. The new program, which culminates in an associate of arts degree in Mental Health Work, is the second of its kind in the university system.

Funding for the program was obtained through the National Institute of Mental Health. This foundation will continue to fund it through 1975. After then ASC is expected to carry its financial burden, just as it would any other degree program.

The program at present is in its infancy, not only at ASC, but nationwide. The concept was first realized six years ago at Purdue University. After less than two quarters the program has twelve declared majors and over twenty-one students enrolled in the two introductory courses being taught this quarter.

The Mental Health Work program is headed by Mr. Eliot H. Palefsky, a graduate of the University of Georgia. Mr. Palefsky received his master's degree in education from Temple University. Mrs. Robyn Buie, a graduate of ASC in psychology, is also working with the program.

In discussing the Mental Health Work degree with THE INKWELL, both Mr. Palefsky and Mrs. Buie agreed that the degree is considered highly "marketable." The program consists of two years of training in psychology, sociology, social welfare, mental health, and three quarters of field work in such facilities as: Georgia Regional Hospital, Clark Pavillion at Memorial Hospital, Community Comprehensive Mental Health Center, and the Chatham County Child Guidance Clinic. After graduation the student is ready to be placed with any agency that deals with human services.

The mental health worker is capable of directly working with the client or patient. According to Mr. Palefsky the program "trains people to relate better to other people; not to function just on a gut level but to be knowledgeable and aware of their own limitations." In essence the mental health worker is a "generalist", according to Mrs. Buie, "a person that can do anything."

In actual practice the mental health worker will work within the framework of the juvenile court, correctional institutions, welfare agencies and mental institutions. In private practice the worker will be qualified to assist professional psychologists or psychiatrists.

Pruitt Reveals Massive Campaign To Sell Armstrong To Savannah

Dennis Pruitt, SGA President, outlined plans for the "sale" of Armstrong to members of the community at a meeting involving the student leaders of Armstrong held on October 28 in the faculty dining room. On Saturday, November 20 from 12:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon, an expected 1,000 ASC students will go knocking door to door in an attempt to publicize the products that the college offers.

Pruitt mentioned three major selling points that Armstrong has. These were: (1) ASC is a major educational institution; (2) The students are interested in the college, its growth, and its academic standards; (3) The Armstrong Basketball Team possesses great potential. The last point offers the student the opportunity to sell season tickets. They will be sold at a reduced price of $10.00 for 15 games, or a savings of $5.00.

In order to accomplish this task, ASC students will be organized into teams according to clubs and individual groups. Each team will be assigned to a certain sector of the city.

Pruitt also revealed plans for visiting civic clubs and businesses in an effort to solicit their help in this campaign for support, financial and otherwise. He hopes that these organizations will be co-operative in offering ASC grads opportunities to stay in the Savannah area upon completion of their college work. He cited the fact that Savannah is actually losing population because of the lack of such opportunities.

Following this door-to-door crusade, the first game of the season will be played, and, afterwards, a dance will be held.

Pruitt Outlines Campaign

Tom Taggart

ASC Grad To Oppose Hagan

Tom Taggart, an Armstrong State College graduate and former Police Officer for the Savannah Police Department, confirmed reports that he is seriously considering opposing Elliott Hagan in the upcoming Congressional race in the First District in 1972.

Taggart said that he "feels that too many matters of significant importance have been neglected by the man" referring to Hagan. Taggart cited the areas of pollution and poverty as those he felt Hagan has shown little interest in. Taggart referred to Hagan's record against pollution as totally unfavorable. He also cited the Family Assistance Act of the 91st Congress which would have given Federal Assistance to the poor which Hagan voted against. Taggart said that Hagan must lack empathy, voting also against the Peace Corps and Vista appropriations.

Taggart said that, if he runs, he will strive to understand the true feelings of the people of the First District—whether they are white, black, or poor. "Too often we have men in office who are not concerned with the broad interests and needs of a majority of the people; too often are these men neither seen or heard by the true constituency of an area but seen and heard only by groups of "friends" in each county. Its pretty hard for the average working guy to be heard with this type of arrangement," Taggart said.

Taggart said that he will hopefully use thousands of students to help in his campaign if he decides to go.

Taggart graduated from Armstrong in 1969 and re-

Berry High Scorer

Intrasquad Scrimmage Previews Seasons

By MARK MAMALAKIS

Armstrong State College had its first open scrimmage last Friday, and for those of you who didn't see it, the Maroons beat the Golds, 88-84. The scrimmage was not highly publicized, yet over 100 students and faculty members came to the gym to get a look at the Pirates of 1971-72.

The coaches did a good job of equally dividing the two teams. The performance indicated that this year's team will fast break as much as possible, which makes for exciting basketball. At half-time, the score was 38-38. High scorers at the half were Charlie Clarke (12) and Sam Berry (10) for the Maroons and Ron Hancock (13) and Ernie Lorenz (10) for the Golds. The game was evenly matched throughout, as shown by the fact that the Maroons got 50 rebounds, and the Golds got 49. Both teams showed scrapiness in their defenses and in rebounding, but both teams' timing was off. This may be expected, though, this early in the season.

Double figures scorers for the Maroons were Sam Berry (24), Charlie Clark (16), Stan Sammons (16), Curtis Warner (14), and Brad Becker (12).

Sammons led the Maroon rebounding with 15 caroms and Berry had 14. The Golds' high scorers were Ernie Lorenz (19), Ron Hancock (18), Clifford Cox (17), Ike Williams (16), and Loren West (14). The 6'10" Lorenz had 15 rebounds and West, his teammate at the low post, grabbed 13 rebounds.

Coach Alexander was not happy at all with the way the teams played. He stated after the game, "We just weren't sharp at all. We have three freshmen in the line-up and they're going to make rookie mistakes. Our conditioning should have been better and our timing was way off. However, at times, the men showed signs of greatness. I was especially impressed with Skippy Hancock, Sam Berry, Ike Williams, and Ernie Lorenz."

Coach Kinder, the defensive coach, echoed Alexander's sentiments. "There were a few bright spots, but we just aren't polished yet. There are too many rough spots." When asked if perhaps the fact that the team was playing defense against its own offense could have hindered the offense, Kinder replied, "That's what we want. If we can score when

Spectators Praise Scrimmage Results

Armstrong's basketball team held its first open scrimmage Friday. Here are the reactions from some of the fans who attended.

Dennis Pruitt, SGA President, "There was no publicity, yet the students showed up. The players' performance in practice shows that they know the students are behind them. There's competition at every position, and they're in fantastic shape for this early in the season."

Jack Beytagh, "The team has fantastic potential. Give them a packed house and a new Civic Center, and they'll make sweet music."

Neil Satterfield, ASC professor, "The whole team looks great. They're swift, tall, and good shooters. The defense needs work, but I think they're championship stuff."

Pirates Down Arch Rival

Armstrong placed four runners in the top seven and held on to edge archrival Georgia Southern in a cross country meet held Saturday at the ASC campus.

Billy Carroll was the first Pirate to cross the finish line, placing third with a 23:52 time. ASC runners Charles Kircher (24:24), Scott Gell (24:31), and Marshall Crosby (24:41) placed fifth, sixth, and seventh over the four and a quarter mile course. John Carroll (25:47) placed eleventh to clinch the victory for the Pirates.

Runners from Armstrong, Georgia Southern, and Savannah State competed in the meet. Most of the Savannah State runners were working, so the Tigers were able to field two competitors. SSC's Bobby Scott represented the Tigers well as he ran away from the field, finishing first with a 21:12 time, almost 2 minutes ahead of his nearest competitor.

Walters David, an Armstrong student, finished with a 25:17 time that did not count for the ASC team since he wasn't eligible. Rick Heator (26:15) also showed well for the Pirates as he finished twelfth.

The Armstrong team will compete this afternoon at the Statesboro (Georgia) campus of Georgia Southern against GSC and Emory.

Ping-Pong Tourney Finals Tomorrow

By MARK MAMALAKIS

The intramural table tennis tournament got under way last week with many students participating. There are 44 people involved in the singles matches and 12 doubles teams.

Among the returning participants are Steve (Slick) Holland, Wing Chung Tang, and Danny Miley. Holland won last year's tournament, and Tang and Miley tied for third. Tang also represented ASC at the College Unions tournament held at the University of Florida.

In the Savannah Open Table Tennis Championship last year, Tang won first place, and Holland nabbed third. Dr. Cedric Stratton, Chemistry professor, also did well in the tournament.

This year it is predicted that Holland and Tang will meet in the finals. Among the favorites in the doubles competition are the Holland-Miley team, the Tang-Stratton team, and the fraternal team of David and Mike Walters.

The finals of the singles tournament will be held November 5 at 12:30 in the gym. Coach Bedwell urges everyone to come and see quality table tennis. Bedwell also wishes to remind everyone that the tourney is B.Y.O.S. (Bring Your Own Sandwiches) and that mixers will be provided (for 15c—compliments of the coke vending machine!)

Miller, Fredeman Star In "Oliver" Production

By DAN BAISDEN

Appearing in the Little Theatre's recent hit, "Oliver", were two students from Armstrong, Marvin Miller, a freshman physics major, and Chris Fredeman, a senior art education major.

Marvin portrayed the Artful Dodger, apprentice to the infamous pickpocket, Fagin, brilliantly done by Mr. Raymond Davis. Marvin's performance was very well polished, lacking, if in anything, perhaps slightly in strength. Marvin whose hobbies are reading, science, and chess, as well as acting, has made minor appearances in a few plays at Jenkins High School.

Chris Fredemen played Mr. Brownlow, the extremely erudite and well-spoken lawyer and true grandfather of Oliver. Chris, who has never acted before except in a Play Production class last spring, is a free lance commercial artist. He lists as his hobbies sleeping and relaxing, from which he occasionally takes vacations.

Like that other very popular musical, "Hello, Dolly", "Oliver" has set records for the Little Theatre. The show has run more consecutive nights than any previous show ever, and has brought overall Little Theatre attendance past any previous years attendance in less than half the season.

A number of important elements combined with the drawing power of the name itself to make "Oliver" a success. Most of the supporting actors and technicians put themselves wholeheartedly into their work. The set was extremely well designed to be at once simple and flexible while precisely recreating the fogbound atmosphere of London. The group scenes were finely choreographed; they were verbally as well as visually balanced and pleasing despite the often enormous complexities of dialogue and action.

A final word of praise goes out to the entire Little Theatre for successfully enduring that special set of twenty young problems, so necessary to the show's success.

American Chemical Society Installs Officers

A meeting was held Oct. 8, 1971 to elect the new officers of the American Chemical Society Student Affiliate Chapter of Armstrong State College. The newly elected officers are: Willson Blake,

Chairman; Creed Taylor, Vice-Chairman; Charlene Wonderley, Secretary; Virgil Hornstein, Treasurer. The faculty advisor for the chapter is Dr. Cedric Stratton. The Student Affiliate group is a professional organization connected with the American Chemical Society. To become a member of the Student Affiliate one must be a Chemistry major, or be in some related field. The sponsoring group of the Student Affiliate at Armstrong is the Coastal Empire Section of the American Chemical Society. Dr. Paul Robbins of Armstrong State College is the President-elect of the Coastal Empire Section.

Various speakers and meetings are being planned for the coming year. Many different topics will be presented and discussed. Business meetings are held the first Monday of each month at 12:30, in room 208 of Solms Hall. Any interested persons should contact the Chemistry Department at ASC or their Chemistry Professor.

in the President's State of the Union address last January.

"This specific conversion will help illustrate the general potential for using defense related facilities to meet pressing domestic challenges," the President said in his prepared statement. "Cutbacks in certain defense needs have provided a considerable supply of expertise and equipment which can now be used for non-defense purposes — if only we take advantage of them," he said.

This facility, which two years ago was "one of the most highly classified 'Top Secret' facilities in the whole United States" will now be open to scientists and doctors from all over the world," the President said. It will be operated by a private firm, not yet selected, under contract to the National Institutes of Health.

basketball player, "They looked as good as expected. I was really impressed with Charlie Clarke. They're in good shape for this time of the year. They shouldn't lose 4 games all year."

Dr. Robert Strozier, English professor, "It is impossible not to be impressed with this basketball team. When we're watching them in the Nationals next March, we may understand just how good they are and how talent, hustle, and dedication pay off."

Pat Holland, "For this stage of the season, they really looked good. It's great to see guards rebounding the way they did today."

Don't just read about the Pirates. Don't deprive yourself of watching them. Every time you get the chance, come watch these fellows play!!!!

someone knows what we're going to do, then we'll be really effective." He later added, "I was really impressed with Hancock's desire out there today."

After a look at the first scrimmage, I can personally tell you that the talent is definitely there, but the success will depend upon the hard work that the players put in. You can bet your money that Coach Alexander and Coach Kinder will have the team ready to play when the season opens.
